Recognition of outstanding academic achievement

RE: Mr. ORIOL BARBANY MAYOR

To Whom It May Concern:

The Telecommunication Engineering School (ETSETB) at the Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya – BarcelonaTech (UPC) provides the Electrical Engineering Degree under the name “Grau en Enginyeria de Tecnologies i Serveis de Telecomunicació” with four specialities: Audiovisuals Systems, Electronic Systems, Telecommunications Systems and Network Engineering.

This degree is awarded by the University (a public state-owned University) on behalf of the King of Spain and is therefore not only accredited, but also official. It also allows the bearer to become automatically a full member of the Official College (professional association) in Spain and thereby to work as a bachelor graduate in all countries.

Teaching activity in our school is traditionally developed with a high degree of exigency, rigor and thoroughness, and as a consequence, our graduates are generally highly appreciated by national and international companies, universities and research laboratories abroad where they apply to continue their academic curricula or to start their professional careers.

The curriculum for the Bachelor Degrees offered at ETSETB requires four full-time years, structured as eight semesters devoted to compulsory and optional subjects, the last semester being partially devoted to a Final Project (Treball Fi de Grau, TFG). The students who get to pass all the courses included in the curriculum just at the first time they are enrolled in them, constitute a reduced outstanding group. To recognize the excellence of those students with such outstanding academic performance, the ETSETB School hereby bestows the following certification:

On September 2014, 373 students started an EE Bachelor Degree at the ETSETB.

On July 2018, out of this group, Mr. BARBANY is one of the only 19,03% highest top students who passed all the courses of the curricula without failing any one of the subjects.
